At this point, two sessions took place by a "hot" eight-piece Dixieland-style group under the name ISHAM JONES' JUNIORS (see JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942); subsequent records by the full band are by a very different and uncertain personnel, as Woody Herman and some of his colleagues from the Isham Jones band had formed a band under his leadership (q.v.) Eddie Stone and Joe Martin remain the vocalists, and the instrumentation is 3t/tb/cl/2as/ts/p/sb/d-vib (see also Eddie Stone).

ART KAHN AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Art Kahn was a prominent pianist and bandleader in Chicago during the 1920s. An item in THE TALKING MACHINE WORLD for December 15, 1923 shows the band from the Senat Theatre that the text asserts was the one heard on the records made about that time, although it shows a violin who is not in evidence aurally. For this engagement, Art Kahn seems to have used some of the Midway Gardens musicians (cf. JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942); the sides issued on various ARC labels under his name during the 1930s are all by the ARC studio bands of the time, and are listed under that heading.

LOUIS KATZMAN

Louis Katzman was a trumpet player doubling violin who directed many recording sessions in New York during the 1920s and early 1930s, several of them being of light music not intended for dancing. Although a number of his dance records are of Latin-American music, they were obviously designed for the United States

RALPH KIRBERRY AND HIS ORCHESTRA

See the ARC-Brunswick studio bands.

KIRBY'S KINGS OF JAZZ

See the Newtown Pippins.

ED KIRKEBY

Ed Kirkeby has been managing dance bands and popular artists since 1916, and it is entirely due to his kindness and generosity that we are able to date exactly all the records they made. Many records made under his direction are shown in the chapter on ARC-Brunswick studio bands, and many more under the heading Ted Wallace and his Campus Boys (or his Orchestra), this being a favorite pseudonym. See also the California Ramblers and the Vagabonds; records by small groups such as the Little Ramblers, the Five Birmingham Babies, the Goofus Five and the Varsity Eight (all directed and arranged by Ed Kirkeby) are shown in JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942. A record by Phil Spitalny (Perfect 15524), q.v., also appeared under Ed Kirkeby's name, and a session for Banner on March 2, 1931 by his band appeared under the name of Ben Pollack and his Orchestra which had made the original recordings of the same titles a few weeks earlier, but which were not considered suitable for issue.

The Complete Entertainment Discography

from the mid-1890s to 1942

BRIAN RUST

Brian Rust, the world's leading discographer, breaks new ground with this volume. It is the first book to trace the recording careers of the great entertainers: singers, comics, actors and actresses, vocal groups, show-business personalities.

Many other discographies—most notably, Brian Rust's own monumental two-volume opus, Jazz Records 1897-1942—cover jazz. Mr. Rust's American Dance Band Discography covers popular orchestras.

But incredibly, this is the first to trace the recorded careers of the great entertainers. It will never be supplanted as the definitive work on the subject, from the dawn of recording up through the mid-1942 record ban.

Mr. Rust is lavish with data: artists, songs, accompanists, recording dates, place of recording, master numbers, catalog numbers, take numbers—everything the researcher, the collector, the fan must know.

But that's not all. For most artists (wherever information was available), the author supplies a quick biography in "who's who" style. We get the vital facts, and can give the artist his rightful niche in the hall of fame.

And make no mistake, every famous one is here: every great entertainer...every semi-major entertainer...and a host of minor ones. Nearly 500 in all.

Whatever kind of entertainment you like—popular music, films, vintage radio, Broadway shows, vaudeville, comedy—your favorites are here (including many who graduated to TV). This is the one indispensable guide to the recorded history of entertainment in our century.

BRIAN RUST is a British author who worked for the BBC Gramophone Library until 1960. In the late 50s he led the Original Barnstormers Spasm Band that recorded for English Decca and Parlophone. He contributes to The Melody Maker, The Gramophone, House and Garden, Storyville and Jazz Journal. This is Mr. Rust's eighth book. He lives in a London suburb with his wife Mary and their three children.

THE AMERICAN DANCE BAND DISCOGRAPHY 1917-1942

VOLUME I

IRVING AARONSON TO ARTHUR LANGE

BRIAN RUST

With this massive set, the world's leading discographer fills the last remaining gap in pre-World War II discographical research. And fills it definitively.

Jazz recording has been exhaustively researched, most notably by Mr. Rust himself in Jazz Records 1897-1942. His Complete Entertainment Discography (Arlington House, 1973) covered singers, comics and actors. Now these two volumes trace the recording careers of 2,373 dance bands:

- The giants: Whiteman, Ray Noble, Isham Jones, the Dorseys, Hal Kemp, Harry James, Glen Gray, etc.
- Unsung greats (and near greats): Red Norvo, Les Brown, Larry Clinton, Will Bradley, Jan Savitt, Claude Thornhill, etc.
- The deserving (and undeserving) rich: Welk, Lombardo, Kay Kyser, Freddy Martin, Sammy Kaye, Wayne King, Frankie Carle, Dick Jurgens, Jan Garber, Rudy Vallee, Art Hickman, Ben Bernie, Ozzie Nelson, Leo Reisman, Eddy Duchin, etc.
- The obscure but deserving: Joe Haymes, Bert Lown, Paul Tremaine, Teddy Powell, Bob Chester, Mal Hallett, Smith Ballew, Gus Arnheim, Will Osborne, Seger Ellis, Richard Himber, Don Bestor, etc.
- The exotic and the offbeat: Xavier Cugat, Shep Fields and His Rippling Rhythm, the Clicquot Club Eskimos, Ray Herbeck and His Music with Romance, Coon-Sanders' Original Nighthawks, etc.

There are no Negro bands, since Mr. Rust covered them in Jazz Records 1897-1942. Glenn Miller is omitted because he is covered definitively in John Flower's Moonlight Serenade (Arlington House). Benny Goodman is omitted because he is covered definitively in Big on the Record by D. R. Connor and W. H. Hicks (Arlington House). Apart from these sensible omissions, the rolls here are complete.

This is no mere record listing. Brian Rust summons all the arcane data so delicious (and necessary) to the music scholar: recording dates, vocalists, band personnel, matrix numbers, take numbers, pseudonyms, etc. It is a work that can never be supplanted.

In the PHONOGRAPH AND TALKING MACHINE WEEKLY dated November 21, 1923, there is a report that Arthur Lange and his Cameo Recording Orchestra were then playing in the Cinderella Ballroom on Broadway, giving an illustration of the band and an identification of each member of it. Whether this applies to most, all, or some of the foregoing is not known, but bearing in mind that other news stories about records having "just been made" usually referred to sessions undertaken several weeks earlier, it is obvious that this personnel can be regarded as accurate for at least the next few months' work in the Cameo studio.

SAM LANIN

One of the most prolific recording bandleaders, Sam Lanin directed nearly 400 sessions between 1920 and 1931, for almost every label operating in New York at the time. A complete discography, with every personnel detail, is virtually an impossibility, especially since Mr. Lanin's own files were inadvertently destroyed some years ago, but the following includes all the traceable titles at the time of going to press, with collective personnels given where more exact details cannot be determined. See also the Arkansas Travelers, Bailey's Lucky Seven, the Broadway Bell-Hops, the Ipana Troubadours, the Melody Sheiks, and the University Orchestra.

The exact or even approximate dates of the remaining Cameo-Pathe sessions are impossible to determine, other than those shown. Very few exact dates by other artists of this period on these labels are known, and the complexity is made greater by the haphazard method of allocating the matrix serials in two series, and by the fact that some titles are not common to both series.

Here again, the complexities of the numbering of identical masters when issued on Cameo, Lincoln and Romeo on the one hand and Pathe-Actuelle-Perfect and/or Banner and associated labels on the other, make it impossible to estimate a recording date more exactly than c. July, 1929.

The date given is the one shown for matrices 8920, 8921 and 8975 in the ARC files, but it is quite likely that this is merely the date these numbers were allocated to masters leased from Cameo-Pathe, in which case these three titles were probably made on as many different dates with somewhat varying personnels.

Jules Levy, Jr., cornet and trumpet playing son of one of the true pioneers of recording (his father made tinfoil cylinders experimentally for Edison, and many hundreds of wax cylinders and discs, between the 1880s and his death in 1905), was the featured soloist on many dance band records of the early 1920s, notably those made under the direction of Joseph Samuels, q.v. (A few of these were credited to Jules Levy himself; they will be found under Joseph Samuels' heading, however). The following is an unusual dance record.

NOTE:- The Brunswick files show that matrix B-14384 was "re-made" on January 26, 1934, but whether this was an entirely new recording by the band, or merely a dubbing of one of the takes from the above session, is not known. The likelihood is that this was a dubbing session; the record appeared on the market within a few days, and it is most improbable that the entire band would be recalled to re-make one single side at a time when dubbing was established as a method of obtaining a satisfactory master from an existing, presumably unsatisfactory one.

Under the above date, the Columbia files show a recording - location not stated - of Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians playing ST. LOUIS BLUES, matrix 152604-1. It was issued on Mt M-13299, Or 3082, Per 16066, Ro 2456 and Voc 2848, but in spite of this, the chances are that it is an edited dubbing of the original Columbia matrix 98722 (see October 1, 1930, p. 1112). It has not been possible at the time of writing to compare the original 12-inch issue with any of the 10-inch ones.

Irving Mills also directed many jazz sessions (see JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942), and his name appears to have been used as a pseudonym on Cameo 9188, Lincoln 3215 and Romeo 990 for Sam Lanin and his Orchestra, also on Pathe Actuelle 36961 and Perfect 15142; and for Bill Wirges and his Orchestra on Cameo 9271 and Lincoln 3298.

MIMOSA DANCE ORCHESTRA

This non-committal name was used on 6-inch Mimosa records, a product of the British Crystalate Manufacturing Company between 1922 and 1928, to cover the identities of many dance bands, American and British alike. The American ones were edited from ten-inch pressings, known examples being these :-

P-205 Gonna Get A Girl (Sam Lanin and his Orchestra)
 P-206 Kiss And Make Up (Harry Reser's Dance Orchestra)

MISSISSIPPI MUSIC MAKERS

Although his name is sometimes associated in full on the labels of the following records, it is not known how much, if anything Billy Murray, the vaudeville singer and comedian, had to do with the band beyond supplying the vocal part on two of the later sides. The instrumentation of the 1920 recordings seems to be t/tb/cl/as/vn/p/d, the latter being probably played by George Hamilton Green.

RED NICHOLS AND HIS ORCHESTRA

The following records are those made by Red Nichols and his dance orchestra, formed originally in 1932 after the last of the famous Five Pennies records were made. The latter were not necessarily a quintet or sextet, but the great majority of them were made for the jazz connoisseur, and hardly merit a place in this book. (See JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942).

RED NORVO AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Prior to forming his big band in 1936, Kenneth "Red" Norvo made a number of sides of small-band jazz with various studio bands, but it is felt that these do not come strictly within the scope of this book (see JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942).

JOSE PADILLA'S ORCHESTRA

Jose Padilla was the Spanish composer who had several very successful hits during the 1920s, such as BALLESTEROS (better known as BOBADILLA), LA VIOLETERA, PAREE, EL RELICARIO and - most famous of all - VALENCIA. As far as is known, he never directed a band of his own, but the above styling was given a Canadian Domino issue (21531) by Joe Candullo's Everglades Orchestra, q.v.

DON PARKER

Don Parker was a prominent saxophonist during the early 1920s in New York, recording with the Original Dixieland Jazz Band on Okeh, with his own Trio and Western Melody Boys on Pathe, and afterwards coming to London where he made many Vocalion records with a British band. The following are his known records made prior to his London sojourn.

PAUL'S NOVELTY ORCHESTRA

It is not certain whether this was Eddie Paul, q.v., or Paul Davin, who made matrix GEX-2726. The name was also used on Australian Lyric 3370 for Lawrence Welk and his Orchestra, q.v. It is assumed that the first title shown below is by the same rather mysterious band, but hitherto, no American label or issue other than presumably one or more of the Grey Gull group is known.

PRINCE'S BAND/ORCHESTRA

Charles A. Prince was the Musical Director of Columbia Records in New York during the first two decades of the century. Many of the records by the Columbia Orchestra were made under his direction, in addition to those designated as above. The list below and in the next few pages begins at the point at which this book theoretically starts, January, 1917, but there were many dance records by this band made prior to this. The personnel varied from session to session, as might be expected, but it consisted basically of the following :-

Charles A. Prince dir. Bohumir Kryl-Vincent C. Buono-others-t/Leo Zimmerman-tb/Thomas Hughes-cl/Marshall P. Lufsky-f/Charles d'Almaine-Walter Biederman-wn/ah/th/bb/Ed Rubsam-Howard Kopp-d-chimes etc. New York, January 2, 1917.

Other records made under the name of the Regent Club Orchestra during 1931 were directed by Victor Young, and as one or two titles from these sessions were credited to him on issue, they are shown under his name in this book. (It is possible he directed at least some of the above also). See also Bob Haring and his Orchestra, and Bill Wirges and his Orchestra.

HARRY RESER

Harry Reser was one of the most prolific recording banjoists of the 1920s and early 1930s, as a glance at the index to this work will show. His solo records, while models of their kind, are instrumental novelties rather than dance music, but his band recording with trios and small groups up to full-sized dance orchestras are shown below.

FRED RICH AND HIS ORCHESTRA : During the summer of 1929, Leo McConville-t/Tommy Dorsey-t-tb/Jimmy Dorsey-cl-as-bar/Carl Kress-g/Joe Tarto-bb-sb were under contract to Fred Rich, who was then director of the CBS house band. Certainly they are identifiable on the Columbia records made from that time onwards for a while, but the personnel of the sessions undertaken during the earlier months of 1929 is still not known. It may include some of these musicians; it did not include Bob Mayhew, who had joined Hal Kemp, or Walter Livingston, who joined Fred Elizalde in London, arriving there on March 15. The vocalists on the following include Billy Murray, Irving Kaufman and a chorus called The Rollickers.

JUSTIN RING

Justin Ring was pianist, arranger and director for OKeh Records in New York during the 1920s, working for Pathe (Perfect) during 1930 and 1931, eventually with Decca in 1934. Many of his records are of tap dance accompaniments, clog dances, old-style country dances and so on, but his standard dance records are shown here.

NOTE:- The Justin Ring Trio that accompanied popular singers on OKeh during the mid-twenties consisted of Nathan Glantz-as/Justin Ring-p-cel/Harry Reser-bj-g-vn, and these almost certainly played in his studio orchestras.

DICK ROBERTSON AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Dick Robertson was one of the most popular vocalists in both radio and recording studios from 1927 onwards, but despite the above legend appearing on dozens of records, he was not a bandleader in the normal sense, just the featured vocalist with studio bands, mostly the ARC-Brunswick group (q.v.) or a very heavily jazz-slanted unit on Decca, despite the "popular" material recorded (see JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942). Dick Robertson's dance records not coming into either of these categories are shown below.

WILLARD ROBISON

Willard Robison, pianist, bandleader, vocalist and songwriter, made many records for Autograph (strictly jazz), Pathe (many of them vocal with his own piano as sole accompaniment), Columbia and Victor between 1924 and 1930. Those known or thought to be by his band are given below.

NOTE:- Although the following Pathe Actuelle and Perfect records are variously labelled as by the DEEP RIVER ORCHESTRA, or LEEVE LOUNGERS, and the Cameo group of labels credits some of them to MIAMI ROYAL PALM ORCHESTRA, some doubt exists as to whether or not these facts alone are sufficient to ascribe them to Willard Robison (as few of them are credited to him). In the absence at the time of writing of any other bandleader to whom to give the credit, however, I have decided their place is in this chapter!

WALTER B. ROGERS' (MILITARY) BAND

Walter B. Rogers was for many years a cornet soloist in John Philip Sousa's Band, and from about 1908 to 1916 he directed the various Victor recording organizations. The records listed in the next pages are dance records, despite the "military" label on some of them; the Paroquette records, extremely rare 9-inchers, seem to offer a very interesting selection of rags for the ragtime connoisseur.

New York, c. November, 1916.

- On The South Sea Isle Paroquette 36
 The Boat To Dixie (comp WBR) -
 Just One Day Paroquette 37
 Unison Blues (comp WBR) -

ART ROHMAN AND HIS ORCHESTRA

See Tom Berwick and his Orchestra (Bluebird B-5525).

B. A. ROLFE

B. A. Rolfe, once a trumpet soloist with Vincent Lopez, became a bandleader in his own right in 1926 and recorded thus exclusively for Edison until the withdrawal of that label from the market on November 1, 1929. He also made records with his Concert Orchestra in 1927 and 1928, but these have no place in this work as they are not dance records.

ADRIAN ROLLINI

Many records featuring Adrian Rollini are issued under other names than his, and of those appearing under his name, some were of out-and-out jazz performances. The sides made by a studio band under his nominal direction, however, are of dance music with a jazz flavour, and are listed below. See also JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942.

 KARDOS AND HIS ORCHESTRA. Adrian Rollini is readily identifiable, of course, but the use of two trumpets and a brass bass suggests that at least some of Gene Kardos's men were present, and Adrian Rollini may have merely sat in.

The next session could be a Joseph Samuels date; he could be the clarinet soloist, and Nathan Glantz is probably one of the saxes, but no definite details are known.

ADRIAN SCHUBERT

Adrian Schubert was Musical Director for the Plaza group of labels (Banner, Domino, Regal etc.) from 1925 to 1930; he then transferred to Crown, and in the years from 1922 to 1933, he made countless records. Those listed in this chapter are known or believed to be by Adrian Schubert, in view of the best evidence available, but like all the musicians directing bands on these labels, his work appeared under a bewildering variety of pseudonyms, and in the absence of the records themselves in many cases, I have had to rely on documentary evidence rather than aural.

of which are shown above. It may be they have no vocal refrains, which might account for the different matrix numbers, and it may be that these are seven-inch masters made specially for export and use on the Victory label, on which non-vocal versions of each were issued as shown under the name of VICTORY DANCE ORCHESTRA.

RAYMOND SCOTT

Raymond Scott's earliest records were made in the years 1937-1939 with a quintet that played his outlandishly-named compositions, aimed at the then avant-garde
"jazz" cognoscenti, and thus they do not merit inclusion here; but in the fall of 1939, he organized a swing orchestra on instrumentally conventional lines, and began including popular tunes of the day in its repertoire in addition to further arrangements of classical pieces and works of his own.

NOTE:- All Champions as JACK CRAWFORD AND HIS BOYS. As Jack Crawford's orchestra (q.v.) was touring in the mid-West at the time the above sides were made, it may be that Emil Seidel used some of its members, including their leader, for at least some of the above dates. It could also be that Jimmy Fisher and Benny Benson were members of the band, at any rate on the sides on which they sing, but their instruments, if any, are not known.

BEN SELVIN

Ben Selvin, violinist, vocalist, composer and bandleader, and latterly RCA Victor Artists' Manager, can claim to have made more records than any other leader in this book, and for every recording company, starting in 1919. His work appears under many pseudonyms, and some of the personnels shown are collective, as anyone with as many sessions to his credit as this artist could hardly be expected to recall who played what on which one, half a century or so later; nevertheless, I have had the great good fortune to receive some valuable information from Mr. Selvin himself, who also very kindly put me in touch with several of his friends who were regularly featured on his records (Hymie Farberman, Sam Lewis and Hymie Wolfson among them), and piece by piece, the fascinating jigsaw puzzle of the Ben Selvin story on record has been put together.

From this point on, for about a year, Ben Selvin's records, all Vocalions, are credited variously to SELVIN'S ORCHESTRA, SELVIN'S DANCE ORCHESTRA, SELVIN'S BOARDWALK ORCHESTRA and simply THE BOARDWALK ORCHESTRA. As these names are used indiscriminately to different titles from the same session at times, there seems no point in identifying them in detail, especially as an announcement in THE TALKING MACHINE NEWS for January 15, 1923 says "They play at New York's Boardwalk Restaurant," and the accompanying illustration shows the same ten men as four months previously - assuming the photograph relates to the recordings of that particular date.

At this point, Artie Shaw gave up leadership of his band, handing it over to George Auld (q.v.), and took a protracted holiday in Mexico. He then formed a large orchestra in California and resumed the role of leader. Artie Shaw also formed his Gramercy Five, a "chamber-music jazz" quintet that made eight sides in 1940, but these are omitted as they do not come strictly within the "dance music" scope of this work.

It is believed that the name of this unit is derived from the first syllable of the Musical Director's name and the whole of the Artists' Manager's, although Eddie King did not participate musically on these sides. The personnel is as complete and accurate as Mr. Shilkret could make it forty-two years later, and it fits with what is in the Victor files and what can be heard on the only titles issued.

NAT SHILKRET AND THE VICTOR ORCHESTRA

Nathaniel "Nat" Shilkret was Victor's Director of Light Music between 1915 and 1945 - an impressive service - and between 1926 and 1932 he directed hundreds of sides of dance music under the above name (their English equivalents omit the word "Victor"). He could draw on some of the finest talent in the New York musical world, and most of his records feature solo work by one or more of these. The instrumentation is taken from the Victor recording files, and names are given where it is possible to identify them (Mr. Shilkret helped considerably with this research). A collective personnel is also shown, again with Mr. Shilkret's generous and valuable assistance.

This vaudeville act was formed as such in 1910 by Tom, William, Verne, Alex and Fred Brown, and their first records, made the following year, describe them quite correctly as the Brown Brothers Saxophone Quintette (with fine disregard of the usual rule that a quintette consists of five ladies). Apart from Tom Brown-as, the exact instruments played by the brothers are not known; by the end of the life of the act, which was in the nature of a dance unit, all but Tom had been replaced by other reedmen. All their known records are listed here, although it should be obvious that a fair number of them were not designed for dancing!

JOHNNY SYLVESTER

The earliest records made under Johnny Sylvester's name indicate that the band was "formerly the Original Indiana Five," and as they are mainly uncompromising "hot" Dixieland jazz performances, they belong strictly in JAZZ RECORDS, 1897-1942, q.v. The following sides were made by various groups apparently assembled for recording.

JOHNNY SYLVESTER AND HIS ORCHESTRA : Johnny Sylvester-t dir. t/tb/2cl-as/Roy Madison-p/? Tony Colucci-bj/? Tom Morton-d.
New York, c. October 12, 1925.

106314 I Would Rather Be Alone In The South PA 36354, Per 14535

On August 1, 1926, VARIETY published the following personnel for Eddie Edwards and his Southerners. In view of Johnny Sylvester's inclusion, it is possible that the records made about that date also use some, if not all of Eddie Edwards' band.

Johnny Sylvester-Ellie Evans-t/Eddie Edwards-tb/Carl Gauper-Wally Littlewood-cl-ss-as/Bill King-cl-ss-ts/Bernard Pinella-vn/Larry Rosenstock-p/Lou de Fabbia-bj/Earl Breckenridge-bb-sb/Frank Horsecroft-d/Arthur Hall-v (the latter on the records only).

VAN EPS QUARTET : As above. New York, June 15, 1920.

24084-1-2-3-4 Scandal Walk Rejected
24085-3 So Long, Oo-Long (How Long You Gonna Be Vic 18681 Gone ?) (Intro. Jean)

VAN EPS SPECIALTY QUARTET : The instrumentation for this is the same as for the usual Quartet above, but the use of the word "Speciality", the absence of any reference to Frank Banta, the fact that Mr. van Eps himself distinctly recalled using George Gershwin on piano at times, and that the title SCANDAL WALK is a Gershwin composition, may combine to suggest that the pianist on this and other sessions so labelled is indeed George Gershwin.

New York, c. June, 1920.

Scandals of 1920 - Medley (Intro. Em 10211 Scandal Walk/Idol Dreams)
A Young Man's Fancy -

VAN EPS QUARTET : Presumably the usual Quartet.
New York, c. June, 1920.

7258 Moonbeams Voc 14177, X-9081
Snuggle (Close To My Heart) - X-9080
7263 April Showers Bring May Flowers (Intro. Voc 14099, M-1006, Hom H-283 Pip-Pip, Toot-Toot, Goodbye-ee)

NOTE:- Vocalion M-1006 as ORIENT OCTETTE (!); Homochord as THE JAZZ THREE (!)

New York, April, 1921.

Snuggle (Close To My Heart) Oly 15110

VAN EPS SPECIALTY QUARTET : Presumably the usual Quartet, but again no reference to Frank Banta, and again a Gershwin composition.
New York, c. June, 1921.

Swanee Rose (comp. GG) Em 10415
Just Because -

VAN EPS QUARTET : As usual. New York, c. July, 1921.

The full Paul Whiteman orchestra at this date consisted of the names shown below. They did not all take part in every subsequent recording, and the exact personnel frequently changed from one side to another within the sessions themselves. For a detailed account of who played what on which titles during the time Bix Beiderbecke played cornet with the band, readers are referred to the excellent discography in Richard M. Sudhalter and Philip R. Evans' book BIX - MAN AND LEGEND (published by Arlington House, 1974). Instrumentation is given after each title.

RUDY WIEDOEFT

Rudy Wiedoeft was one of the dominating figures in the dance band world in New York during the early years covered by this book, and he undertook concert tours of the British Isles and Europe as a soloist later on, as well as organizing bands such as those shown here (see also the Palace Trio). He died in 1940, aged 46.

compiled by MARY and VICTOR RUST

All names in this book are shown strictly alphabetically; thus de Leath, Van Eps and LaFaro are all treated as if they were one word each. If a name is preceded by Mc or Mac, these are shown together, provided there is a capital letter for the rest of the name, e.g., McPartland, MacDonald. Names such as Macdonough are listed in the normal position of others beginning with M. In some cases there is doubt as to exactly how a musician's name is spelt, and slight variations occur in the course of the text (for instance, Clark and Clarke; in such cases, they are shown with the extra letter in brackets, thus: CLARK(E)). Where a musician is better known by his nickname than his real one, he is shown as a rule under the former in the text, and in the index thus: NICHOLS, Red (r.n. Loring N.) Pages on which a musician's recordings issued under his own name are listed are in the index with the page-numbers underlined. It is quite usual for a personnel to remain little changed over several pages, and in the text, the members of such a personnel do not always get a reference on each page where their records are listed; as a result, these pages are not shown in the index.
